Dear Freind:

I have been trying to write this letter to you for the past week. First of all I have been laid up with my bad back. It makes me quite helpless when it hits me. I just can not do anything but lay flat on my back in bed.

Now I know I owe you a bill. Please send it to me. The reason we came home after we were rained out, was because in addition to the room rent, we would have had to give the men eating money $2.00 each, if we had kept them away all night. You have no idea how those 40's and 50's add up. Whatever rooms you could have rented that you saved for us, please send me the bill for.

I am asking you now to save rooms for us June 26th. We are playing The Grays in Trenton the 26th, and Washington the 27th, so we want to stay in Philadelphia after the Trenton game.

Thank you for your cooperation. I hope you are enjoying good health.

Very Truly Yours
